

Dixon Girl Is Killed On Treacherous Brick Paving Sunday Night

Miss Avis Logan, Aged 20, Victim Of Trag- ic Auto Accident

Miss Avis Logan, aged 20, of this city, died at the Lincoln hospital in Rochelle last night about 9 o'clock, her death resulting from injuries sustained in an automobile crash on the Lincoln Highway about four miles west of Rochelle on a treacherous brick-paved stretch. Her sister, Mrs. William McDonald, of this city sustained a fractured collar bone and others who were riding in the car with her received minor cuts and bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. William McDonald, Miss Logan and Ernest Streeter were returning home from a visit in Rockford in the former's car, about 8:15 Sunday evening. At a point about four miles west of Rochelle, two cars which were traveling east were met. The second car, driven by a Mr. Sinnard of Chicago, in which he and a party were returning to their home, turned out to pass the first machine and in so doing, the Sinnard car struck the Dixon coach in the side, practically ripping away the side of the machine, which was spun around on the slippery paving.

Died in Hospital
Miss Logan sustained the most severe injuries and was taken in another car with the other injured persons to the Rochelle hospital.

The firm at present has a fleet of three trucks and buyers who are busily engaged in this locality for this aggressive firm.

HORNER WILL VETO BANK-WAIVER BILL
Springfield, Ill., May 8.—(AP)—The bill authorizing the reopening of downstate banks when 75 percent of the deposits are waived will be vetoed tomorrow, Governor Horner announced today.

Attorney General Otto Kerner has held the bill unconstitutional. It would permit Circuit Courts to order state banks reopened with all deposits waived if 75 percent of the creditors agreed.

Dixon spent Saturday in Chicago conferring with Col. McCormick and received his acceptance to an invitation to deliver the Memorial Day address in Dixon.

Col. McCormick is a forceful speaker and his coming to Dixon on this occasion will mark his first visit to this city, although he has passed over Dixon by plane on many occasions. The Memorial Day committee were greatly pleased and gratified when notified that Col. McCormick had acted favorably upon the invitation to be the city's guest on this occasion. The exercises will be held at the Lincoln Statue instead of at the court house square as in past years. The Memorial Day committee is planning to make this event one of the outstanding observances in years and it is expected that several thousand will be in Dixon to attend the services.

TWO ALLEGED KIDNAPERS ARE ORDERED FREED Federal Judge Direct- ed Acquittal In Peoria Trial

Peoria, Ill., May 8.—(AP)—The court today directed verdicts of not guilty as to two of the eight defendants on trial in Federal Court here on kidnap and extortion charges and denied motions for directed verdicts as to the others.

Those acquitted by the court when the government failed to introduce any evidence to connect them with either the Fred DePhillipi or Adhemar Hughes abductions were John Siciliano, Chicago, and Frank L. Smith, Rock Island. Those still on trial are Frank O. Delbono, alias Joe Bruno; Wesley Pritchett, alias Eddie Moore; Carl Delbono, all of Chicago; Mike Tallico and Victor Ciesielski, alias Heinie Lee, both of Duquoin.

Because evidence which the government charged as having been mailed from Moline were mailed from Chicago, two counts in the indictment were stricken, leaving three remaining.

Smith, it was shown, was with Hughes the afternoon he was kidnaped and received a letter from Hughes asking him to be a go-between. Siciliano was not mentioned in the evidence.

Defense testimony was scheduled to start this afternoon.

Amendment Of Beer Bill To Be Asked

Springfield, Ill., May 8.—(AP)—Governor Horner said today that the legislature tomorrow will be asked to amend the new beer regulation law by broadening the state's power to issue licenses to retailers of the legal beverage.

A bill will be introduced, he said, to give the state authority to issue its $50 licenses in communities which have not provided for local permits.

In municipalities and counties which have local license laws, the state plans to follow the present regulations and grant licenses only to persons who have obtained the local permits.

When the regulatory law went into effect ten days ago, the administration discovered it had not power to license beer sales if the governmental sub-divisions did not. Finance Director Joseph J. Rice meanwhile has asked beer sellers to pay the $50 fee regardless.

Rhode Island To Vote Repeal Today

Providence, R. I., May 8.—(AP)—The convention of 31 delegates pledged to place Rhode Island on record for repeal of the 18th Amendment was called for today.

The vote of delegates will be a mere formality for in last Tuesday's special election the voters of Rhode Island signified their wish by a 7 to 1 majority.

It was expected, however, that there would be a spirited contest in the selection of a permanent chairman. Former Gov. William S. Flynn is expected to have the support of 15 Democratic delegates and State Senator Russell H. Handley of Lincoln is favored by the 15 Republicans.

Luke H. Callan of Bristol, an independent, has not indicated whom he favors.

Rain Stopped Col. Turner's Attempt

St. Louis, May 8.—(AP)—His second assault on the transcontinental speed record thwarted by rain, Col. Roscoe Turner's swift little plane was still intact today and ready for a third try.

Colonel Turner said he had not made up his mind when he would make the third attempt to lower the record of ten hours, 18 minutes held by Jimmie Hazelip of St. Louis.

After hurdlings dust storms and strong cross winds on the western leg of his attempt to fly from Los Angeles to New York, Col. Turner abandoned the flight at Columbia, Mo., yesterday, when rain threatened to beat his craft to pieces.

Decision State Sales Tax Near

Springfield, Ill., May 8.—(AP)—A decision on the constitutionality of the three per cent sales tax was regarded as imminent this afternoon as members of the State Supreme Court began assembling in Springfield.

Justice Warren H. Orr of Carthage was the first to arrive. Chief Justice Oscar E. Heard of Freeport was reported enroute to the city. The remaining five justices were expected before night fall.

The court, now in vacation, was asked when the suit was argued to return an early decision. Ordinarily the members would not reassemble here until early in June.

QUAKE RECORDED

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—An earthquake, centered about 2,100 miles to the southwest of Washington, was recorded today on Georgetown University's seismographs as having begun at 4:39 A. M. Eastern Standard Time with maximum movement at 5:55 and still continuing at 6:40 A. M. when record sheets were being changed. The distance would bring the center just off the Mexican coast.

The flying boat in which Wolfgang von Gronau made his transatlantic flight in 1930 has been placed in the Deutsche Museum of Munich.

LINDBERGH'S ARE FORCED TO LAND IN A SAND STORM

Spent Night In Plane:
Weather Keeps Them
At Columbus, O.

Columbus, Ohio, May 8.—(AP)—Heavy weather between Columbus and Washington held Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh here this morning. They had planned to start for the national capital this morning but after looking over weather reports they decided to remain here until the weather to the east cleared.

None the worse from battling a severe sandstorm that forced them to land in an isolated section of the Texas Panhandle and sleep overnight in their plane, Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh arrived in Kansas City shortly after noon yesterday, and proceeded to Port Columbus for the night stop.

"People shouldn't worry. It's liable to happen anytime in the western country," Colonel Lindbergh said of the Texas experience. "It was better to land," he added, "than attempt to go through a sandstorm."

The Lindberghs were forced down in the blinding sandstorm a few hours after they left Albuquerque, N. M. Saturday. The landing was described as "somewhere north" of Amarillo, Texas and, as Mrs. Lindbergh put it, "we passed a very comfortable night," in the red and black monoplane they have equipped for sleeping. There was food enough for thirty days.

The Colonel is returning from an inspection tour for Transcontinental & Western Airways.

IS DUE IN COURT

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, due to arrive here today from Columbus, Ohio, is expected to tell on the witness stand his own story of the kidnaping and murder of his infant son.

The government has asked him to appear as a witness in the trial of Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker on charges of conspiring to steal $350,000 from Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, society woman. They are accused of representing falsely that they could locate the Lindbergh baby.

The opening of the trial was set for this morning in the District of Columbia Supreme Court before Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue. Unless a jury is selected today, Lindbergh's testimony will be put over until tomorrow.

Means, a former Justice Department agent, has been convicted and sentenced to serve 15 years on charges of defrauding Mrs. McLean of $104,000 as a result of his activities in the Lindbergh case.

(Telephone Special Service.)
Polo, Ill., May 8.—Mrs. Gavin Walker passed away at her home on E. Mason street at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, following a stroke of paralysis which she had suffered Tuesday. Martial Law For Iowa Farm Riots Sector Nears End

Des Moines, May 8.—(AP)—Removal of all National Guard units from the northwest Iowa farm disorder area is anticipated by the end of the week, adjutant General Charles Grahl said today.

Grahl and Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor left this morning for a tour of the area and expect to report to Governor Clyde Herring tomorrow.

The plan, as outlined today by Grahl, calls for withdrawal of 300 of the 500 Guardsmen now stationed at Le Mars and Denison tomorrow and Wednesday, and the lifting of martial law at that time.

The remaining 200 will be detailed to remain the rest of the week to serve as deputies, subordinate to civil authorities.

More Garden Plots Are Badly Needed

There are still many unemployed families who lack adequate space for vegetable gardens and there are many vacant lots in Dixon that are not being used. Furthermore, there is ample seed of all kinds to plant these vacant lots. If you own a lot that is not in use won't you please loan it to some unemployed family for a garden this summer? Notify the Chamber of Commerce, telephone number 26, and give them the size and location of the lot.

With seed, that has been furnished by the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, already here and with so many families needing the food, it seems a great waste to let any garden spot remain idle.

If you have any garden space to loan please do it promptly for the gardens should be planted now.

ELLSWORTH, ME. SCENE OF FIRE: ARSON CHARGED 400 Homeless, Three Million Dollars Loss Estimated

Ellsworth, Me., May 8.—(AP)—Ellsworth (a town of 3,500) counted its fire loss today at close to $3,000,000 and 400 persons homeless, the result of fast-spreading flames which racing before a high wind last night destroyed more than 50 stores and shops in the center of the business district, and residences conservatively estimated to number more than 100.

Mayor Harold V. Moore said today he had no doubt but that the property damage would approach the $3,000,000 mark.

The fire was discovered shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday night and was not brought under control until five o'clock this morning.

Citizens and city officials, alike viewed the damage the more bitterly because of a widespread conviction the fires which broke out in an old frame building used as a storehouse, had been started by an incendiary.

"I have no doubt of it," Mayor Moore said, referring to the possibility of arson.

Chief of Police Stuart voiced a similar opinion.

CHINESE FLEE BEFORE SECOND JAPS' INVASION

Tientsin, May 8.—(AP)—Chinese troops fled today before the second Japanese-Manchukuan offensive to be aimed in the direction of this city within a month.

Fears were expressed that this time the advancing forces might continue all the way to Tientsin. A bold attempt to assassinate a representative of the Manchukuan government at a Peiping hotel yesterday was not calculated to help matters any. Two Chinese broke into the room of the man, who was registered as Chang Shih-Heng, and shot him so severely that physicians today despaired of saving his life.

Under a combined artillery and bomb attack the Chinese retreated today to Changli, and main forces were concentrated at Lwanchow, less than 100 miles northeast of here. Fears were expressed for the safety of an American Methodist mission at Changli as the invading forces pushed toward that place.

In the new coast campaign, Japanese troops last night occupied Petakiao, a coast city south of Chinwangtao.

Ed. Richards of Vinton, Iowa driving a truck load of hogs to the Chicago market is a patient in the Lincoln hospital at Rochelle, suffering from a severe fracture of the left leg below the knee. He stopped his truck on the newly-brick paved stretch east of Ashton about 1 o'clock this morning to repair a punctured tire. While under the truck making the repair, another truck bearing Nebraska license plates crashed into the Iowa truck which was tipped over on its side. Edward Mahan of this city who was returning home, took the injured truck driver in his car to the Rochelle hospital.

Re-election Of Judge Heard Is Urged By Lawyers

A very appropriate tribute to Hon. Oscar E. Heard, Candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court, was paid to him by the Republican Convention at Rockford recently when it adopted a Resolution as follows:

"Be It Resolved by the Republican Judicial Convention of the Fifteenth Judicial District in Convention assembled:

"That we heartily endorse and commend to the voters of the District the candidacy of Oscar E. Heard for re-election to the office of Supreme Judge.

"His industry, his fairness and his outstanding ability are exemplified by thirty years of service as Judge, nine years of which was upon the Supreme Bench.

"We heartily endorse and commend to the voters of the District for re-election to office of Justice of the Supreme Court, the Honorable Oscar E. Heard, who by his record in that office during the last nine years has shown such industry and devotion to his duties and in their discharge has exemplified such fairness and fearlessness and outstanding ability that he deserves and should receive the support of all voters regardless of party lines or political affiliations. His record as Judge assures every citizen that so long as he is upon the bench no man can be so strong and powerful as to be above the laws restraint, and no man can be so poor and weak as to be beneath the laws protection and we therefore invite the voters of all parties to join us in supporting him for re-election on June 5th, 1933."

The committee was composed of the following members: James Huff, Belvidere, Illinois. Charles E. Stuart, Mt. Carroll, Illinois.

Cassius Poust, Sycamore, Illinois. J. C. Boever, Galena, Illinois. Charles O'Conner, Aurora, Illinois. F. E. Barclay, Yorkville, Illinois. James W. Watts, Dixon, Illinois. Charles H. Francis, Woodstock, Illinois.

Leon A. Zick, Oregon, Illinois. L. M. Swanzey, Freeport, Illinois. Luther R. Ramsey, Morrison, Illinois.

L. C. Miller, Rockford, Illinois.

Judge Heard has served twenty-one years as a Circuit Judge, having served for five years of that period on the Appellate Bench and nine years on the Supreme Court at Springfield. He has always performed his duties faithfully and promptly, and his record is one without just criticism.

We bespeak for every fair minded citizen in this community their earnest support of Judge Heard at the coming election on June 5th.

Slain Watchman's Widow Gets Award
Attorney Mark C. Kellar has received word from Springfield, stating that the State Court of Claims has awarded Mrs. Nannie L. Davis of this city the sum of $3,750 for the death of her husband, the late Eli Davis, on July 14, 1931, while employed as watchman at the Dixon state hospital. The amount represents the maximum award allowed by the state.

Eli Davis was shot and killed near the entrance to the hospital grounds while attempting to prevent the kidnaping of a colored woman patient from the institution by two St. Louis Negroes and a Negro from that city.

Report Fortune

London, May 8.—(AP)—The London Herald reported today that a treasure worth $2,000,000, belonging to the murdered Czar Nicholas II and prominent Russian noblemen, will soon be recovered at Sverdlovsk on the Asiatic side of the Ural mountains.

The Czar's family was slain at Sverdlovsk, then known as Ekaterinburg, after the 1917 revolution.

Detroit Fireman Confesses Killing Divorced Wife In Argument Over Their Child

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 8.—(AP)—George D. Reed, 39-year-old Detroit city fireman, confessed today that it was he who killed his divorced wife, Ruth, 35, whose body was found along a country highway last Thursday morning, and said he would plead guilty at his arraignment, which authorities set for later in the day.

He said his former wife "ran me insane" over alimony matters and over custody of their five-year-old adopted daughter, Irene, but insisted he had no thought of killing her when they started for a ride in his automobile last Wednesday night in an effort to reach an agreement about the child.

Reed's confession came after many hours of questioning which started with his arrest Thursday night, shortly after Mrs. Reed's body was identified, and which had continued since with time out only for eating and sleeping. Until last night there was no break in his protestations of innocence.

Kenneth Buck Faces Kidnap Charge; Cy- ril, Extortion

Provincetown, Mass., May 8.—(AP)—Kenneth and Cyril Buck, brothers pleaded not guilty today to the kidnaping of ten-year-old Margaret McMath. Kenneth asked a continuance of his case and agreed with District Attorney William Crossley on May 22, but Cyril asked an immediate hearing.

The cases of both, however, were continued to May 22 and each was ordered held in $100,000 bail.

The two brothers were taken back to the Barnstable jail.

District Attorney Crossley, in addressing the court, described the case as one of "the greatest importance" and of a nature requiring heavy bail.

He pointed out that in murder cases defendants are not permitted to be released on bail and that if the commonwealth's contentions are correct, kidnaping may be a great deal worse than murder in many cases.

"I respectfully ask the court to set bail at $100,000 for each prisoner," he said.

Before Young Judge

Judge Robert A. Welsh, 30-year-old jurist, sitting on his first important case since his appointment a few weeks ago, considered the argument for several moments.

"Mr. Crossley has referred to murder cases," he said. "This is not a murder case. But kidnaping is one of the most heinous crimes there is because of the worry and mental strain on those affected by it."

After due consideration, I set the bail at $100,000 for each prisoner and continue their cases until May 22."

There was a conflict in the minds of the two prisoners as to when their hearings should be held. Kenneth, charged with kidnaping and extortion, asked that his case be continued a week to permit him to obtain a lawyer.

Cyril, charged only with extortion, wanted an immediate hearing because he had no reason for withholding any knowledge of the kidnaping. He did ask, however, that he be provided with a lawyer.

Needham Maintains His World War Record

Harwichport, Mass., May 8.—(AP)—Kenneth Buck got the ransom money for the return of Margaret McMath Friday at 3 P. M. Thirty hours later he was under arrest. And before dark the entire amount—$60,000—was in the hands of the state police.

The swiftness of it all reminded one newspaperman of World War days, when General Daniel C. Needham, head of the state police, was a Field Artillery Lieutenant.

Needham was an observer with the 101st Field Artillery of the 26th Division. The newspaperman was a war correspondent with the same division.

Needham's battery was firing. One over, under and the third shot square on a German battery—the absolute minimum in ranging.

explaining that while he was willing to testify, he knew nothing about court procedure.

Will Be Joint Trial

Judge Welsh declared a three minute recess to give the brothers an opportunity to confer and decide what they wished to do. District Attorney Crossley told the court that he believed it would be fairer to the brothers if their cases were heard together. Cyril finally agreed to have his case heard with that of his brother.

Crossley's recommendation of two weeks' continuance was accepted by the court. Within that time, Crossley said, he expected a special session of the grand jury would be held to consider the kidnaping.

Both Crossley and State Detective Ernest Bradford attempted to explain to the brothers their legal rights. Cyril said he expected another brother, a resident of Boston, would assist him in securing a lawyer.

Detective Complains

The complainant in both cases was Detective Lt. Bradford.

The charge against Cyril W. Buck, recited that "on the first day of May, 1933, and on divers other occasions, did by verbal communications with Neil C. McMath maliciously threaten an injury to the

League Favors
Women on Juries

Mrs. Ralph B. Treadway of Glen Ellyn, President of the Illinois
League of Women Voters says,
"Service on juries is a right and duty that goes with citizenship. It is a civic duty because it would provide more competent jurors by making a greater number available.
Also the point of view of both men and women is needed, since each has something to contribute."

Mrs. Raymond Simons, of Highland Park, Chairman of the Department of Legal Status of Women of the Illinois League of Women Voters makes the following statement regarding these bills, "Women appear as plaintiffs and defendants. Therefore, it is only fair to the women who come before the courts that there should be women on juries to assist in securing justice for them. Women can appear in Illinois courts in every capacity except as jurors and it is logical that their services should be used in this capacity as well."
These two bills are of interest and concern to every woman in the state of Illinois.

The Illinois League of Women Voters is one of a number of statewide organizations which are supporting bills providing for the service of women on juries. Other or-

Dixon to Observe Nat'l Hospital Day

The Dixon Public Hospital will participate in National Hospital Day, May 12, the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, who was a pioneer in modern hospital methods as well as in nursing. Leading hospitals throughout the United States and Canada established their "day" in 1921, and this year this movement for the education of the public concerning hospitals and hospital service has crossed the oceans, even to Australia and China.

Generally, hospitals celebrating National Hospital Day will hold
"open house" and invite the public to come in and see for itself how the sick and injured of the community are cared for.

There will be a meeting on Friday evening, National Hospital Day, at the Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock to which the public is invited. Dr. J. J. Moore of the National Pathological Laboratories of Chicago, is to be the speaker for the evening.

Meeting on Thursday
A meeting to which the women of Dixon and vicinity are invited will be held at the Nurse's Home Thursday afternoon, May 11th, at 3 o'clock. These meetings are part of the nation-wide educational movements for the prevention of infant and mother mortality and are sponsored by the National Maternity Center of New York City. The National Federation of Women's Clubs and local hospital boards and auxiliaries. These programs are being given on Hospital
Day just previous to the observance of Mother's Day.

Dr. Robt. LeSage, Miss Deardorf and Dr. E. S. Murphy are to be the speakers at the meeting in Dixon
on Thursday.

Miss Alice Powell To Wed In June

Mrs. George Perry Powell announced the engagement of her only daughter Alice Rowena on Saturday evening, May 6th, to S. Wayne Cragg, son of Mrs. Hannah Cragg, of Havana, Ill.

The announcement was made at a dinner party for twelve intimate girl friends of the bride to be.
Yellow and white daisy decorations were carried out in the place cards, table decorations and the menu.

Daisy place cards, contained announcements of the engagement.
The decorative centerpiece was of two shades of yellow containing yellow and white daisies.

Miss Powell graduated from the Dixon high school, afterwards attending Lake Forest college and graduating from the University of Illinois, where Mr. Cragg also attended college and graduated at the same time, class of 1931.

Miss Powell is one of the most popular and accomplished of the girls of Dixon's younger set.
The guests present were Misses Lucy Bovey, Maxine Rosenthal,
Beulah Hey, Frances Stanbrough,
Avis Resek, Alice Crandall, Margaret
Ballou, Mesdames Dorothy Jane Mc
Coy, Wayne Wolf, of Dixon and Mrs.
Richard Shanks of Beverly Hills, and Miss Frieda Davis of Polo. Other guests invited were Misses Helen Deveney, Ruth Dana, Buffalo, N. Y.; Clara Gwen Bardwell, Rockford;
Martha Jean Stephenson, Evanston;
Wanda Kaesser, Mendota.

After the dinner bridge was played, the favors being won by Mrs.
Richard Shanks and Mrs. Wayne
Wolfe, and Miss Frances Stanbrough. The wedding is to take place in June.

Now For Sardines, Pickles
Cover the second slice of bread, battered on both sides, with mixture made by combining sardines, sweet pickles, pickle juice and 1-4 cup mayonnaise and salt.
Cover the third slice, battered on both sides, with the chopped watercress and a little mayonnaise.
The fourth slice of bread gets buttered only on the underside and finishes the top of the loaf.
When the loaf is done, ice it on top and sides with mayonnaise and decorate the top with thin slices of sweet pickle and stuffed olives.
Garnish the dish with radish roses and pickle fans. When you slice the combined loaf, use the sharpest knife you have. Serve a radish and a pickle fan with each slice.

Dangerous for Babies—"Cute Age"

"What is the dangerous age for a baby?" a mother asked me.
"The cute age," I told her.
"But they are cute for several years."

"I mean when a baby is getting cute, say from a year to year and a half old; when it is learning to walk and talk and imitate, when every person screams with delight at each new trick, and the family stands around and tries to make a monkey out of the poor little soul."

"My baby seems to like it," she said. "He opens up like a flower to the sun when everybody admires him. It seems to make him brighter and happier. Anyway, what's the use of having a baby
if you can't enjoy him?"

Must Show Child Love
"Don't tell me!" I sighed. "You are exactly right. It is terrible to express that spontaneous affection and not to show a little child you love and admire him.
I'm not one who believes that straight mechanics in child rearing can ever be successful. To treat a baby like a fine watch—
just something to be regulated and cleaned and oiled up—is just too bad. But still I contend that the cute age is the dangerous age."

"Just exactly why?"
"Because it is the time that he learns that he is the center of the universe. His attention is drawn in on himself. He finds that he is the thing in the house that counts
most and once turned in that direction he isn't likely to find the way back without a lot of trouble."

"But they get over it," she said.
"After a while it wears off. The family treats them more casually, later on and they don't expect to be fussed over."

"That is true to all intents and purposes, too," I admitted. "At least they seem to outgrow it. But read any book on human character, and what do we learn? That we live and die—little children most of us, unhappy when we think we don't count, discouraged easily, our eyes eternally in on ourselves. A hangover from baby-hood when we were taught that our own ego counted first. We can't stand trouble.
"We cannot stand worry. We cannot stand defeat. We want attention, someone to play papa to us, and mama. We have become so set in our own importance, such incurable egocentrism, placing such importance on 'I' that we cannot help being miserable. As a race we aren't really happy. We are still babies."

Coddling Is Dangerous
"And you think it starts in babyhood?"
"Yes, and at the cute age. Of course it is accented throughout childhood by over-coddling. Whenever a child is the center of attention to a marked degree, that is the child who will suffer most through himself later on. Unless,
of course, he is a most unusual

"Two lives are involved, instead
of one," says Dr. Cumming. "A doctor, to measure up to the requirements of a good obstetrician,
must rate high in education and
training, experience and character.
It is an important matter for the
patient if her doctor has encountered many cases just like her own.
The broader the experience of the physician, the wider is the margin of safety for the patient."

"There is no regulation which prevents the impatient physician from applying instruments when the case may not need them if given time. He must not be willing to take any unwarranted risk simply because there is nothing to prevent his doing so."

"In the matter of hospitalization,
if the patient has selected the right kind of doctor he will naturally recommend the right kind of hospital. This will be one in which the proper technique is employed, so that there may be avoidable disasters which could have been foreseen. There will be facilities available for any emergency which may arise, and there will be adequate supervision of all the functions of the hospital."

Hospital at Night In- spiring, Stimulating

Nothing is more stimulating to the imagination than the scene presented silently by a busy hospital at night, whether it be in the heart of a metropolis or on a remote slope above a small town.

Industries may shut down, but a hospital must run day and night, twenty-four hours out of every day. And it must be ready with every facility. That is why modern hospital care requires money to maintain. One never knows when or where the next emergency call may strike, nor who will be the next man, woman, or child to need
the hospital.

Drama is in the lighted squares which gleam steadily from the hospital's shadowy walls. They tell their mute story of vigilance never relaxed, of facilities and skill ready at a moment's notice. Light flashes on in the emergency room as the ambulance slips away, leaving its wounded cargo. Soft-footed nurses are ministering to the wants of human beings in the long wards—men and women of the community who cling tenaciously to life through pain and despair, and look to the hospital to pull them through.

There is drama, too, in the stand-fast lights which tell that the operating rooms are being called into play for another emergency. Someone has been crushed in a motor wreck, or been seized by a sudden attack of acute appendicitis.

The very person who doesn't care to keep the hospital ready for such emergencies is—the person who might need it tomorrow!

National Hospital Day, May 12, should remind everyone of the role
the hospitals are taking in the present emergency, day and night.

Make Motherhood Safe for Mothers

New York, May 8—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will sound the keynote here on May 12th of a coast-to-coast observance of Mother's Day by women clubs and civic organizations uniting to "Make Motherhood Safe for Mothers."

At a meeting to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria, speakers eminent in medical circles, as well as nationally known women, are to tell what needs to be done to reduce the loss of mothers' lives. According to the Maternity Center Association, sponsoring the campaign, at least half of the 16,000 women who die annually in childbirth could be saved.

At the meeting in New York City, Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, is to tell the part of the Children's Bureau in making motherhood safe. Dr. Walter W. Chipman of Montreal, and Dr. J. Allison Hodge of Richmond, Virginia, will explain the reasons for the high death rate, and indicate steps which will help to lower it.

"Choosing the Physician" is to be the topic of Dr. Linsly R. Williams of New York City, and "Choosing the Hospital" will be the subject of
Dr. S. S. Goldwater, of New York City.

In every part of the country similar meetings are planned, many under the sponsorship of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.
Miss Grace Abbott, Chief of the Children's Bureau, endorses the Mother's Day Campaign for improving maternity care as a vital
one. "This is a year," states Miss Abbott, "when we must carefully decide what needs are fundamental and must be adequately met regardless of the sacrifices they require. Safeguarding the health of mothers seems to me to be in the necessary this year's category. In addition to improving available medical services which doctors and health officers are urging, it is necessary that every mother and father understand what constitutes adequate maternity care. Until they do, we shall not eliminate preventable deaths of mothers."

Surgeon-General Hugh S. Cumming, in giving his approval of the Campaign, points out the importance of using care in selecting the physician who is to attend the mother, as well as in choosing a hospital, deploring the fact that "perhaps no momentous decision in a woman's life is ever made with less thought than that involved in the selection of her accoucheur or her family physician."

"Her family physician," says Dr.
Cumming, "or the doctor next door,
may prove to be ideally fitted for the work, but the patient owes it to herself and her baby to make sure of this fact. Her choice may make a vast amount of difference.

"Two lives are involved, instead
of one," says Dr. Cumming. "A
doctor, to measure up to the requirements of a good obstetrician,
must rate high in education and
training, experience and character.
It is an important matter for the
patient if her doctor has encountered many cases just like her own.

take any unwarranted risk simply

his doing so."

pital. This will be one in which the onstrative mother nor do I like

But the dangers of an adulatory

Summer suits do a bit of twobine two designs—plain skirts with checked or striped coats. Second,

both their skirts and their coats can be worn with other things, to enlarge your wardrobe with little effort.

One of the smartest new suits seen at Longchamp was a Marcel

with kick pleats, and both the checks.

Two Curtains in One—
Style authorities endorse the novelty of the new Quaker "VISTA" Curtain

It's the new vogue in curtains for the window with a particularly beautiful view of fields or garden.

It's a Quaker Curtain, of course, and made of fine combed yarns, so fine that you can see through it with little obstruction. But it is also fitted with an ingenious draw-cord. A gentle pull draws the curtain back in graceful folds clearing your vista completely when desired.

SCIENCE DISCARDS "CERTAINTIES"

A bright young man of today who set out to get a good grounding in the sciences could easily be forgiven for concluding that he was being asked to discard all of his certainties and substitute a somewhat jumbled mess of probabilities, near-probabilities and wild guesses.

A decade or two ago science was dogmatic and positive. It set up certain "natural laws" and they were like the laws of the Medes and the Persians. Certain things were thus and so and no one need argue about it.

To appreciate how the picture has changed you need only consider a speech made in New York the other evening by Dr. Irving Langmuir, the 1932 Nobel Prize winner in chemistry.

During the last 20 years, he said, science has come to believe that "no natural law has absolute validity" and that "in no absolute sense can anything ever be predicted accurately." The law of cause and effect is no longer with us, and nothing in the universe is securely hitched.

"Some things may be more probable than others," he added, "but you can't say that anything is absolutely true."

It would be hard to overestimate the importance of this changed attitude, for it carries with it one of the profoundest revolutions that the human mind has ever been compelled to pass through. We are not through with that revolution yet; indeed, we have hardly passed its first phase; and before we complete it some of our concepts of man and nature and life and the universe are likely to be altered almost beyond recognition.

Nor is there anything in all of this to depress the speculative soul who likes to feel that there are values which material standards cannot assess and realities which human eyes cannot see. Indeed, the exact opposite is true. It is the ultramaterialist who is confounded by this change. How are you going to be dogmatic about the absolute dominion of material things when you cannot have one single certainty about them?

FREEDOM THE FILIPINOS

Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, famous Filipino insurrectionist leader of a generation ago, is en route to Washington to urge enactment of a new Philippine independence bill. His trip emphasizes the fact that the bill passed by the last Congress seems to be satisfactory to nobody and needs a good deal of revision.

The independence that the law grants is neither flesh, fowl nor good red herring. It sets the Filipinos free but keeps them in leading strings that makes their freedom a sham. It threatens to cripple their commerce, and it keeps the United States entangled in Far Eastern affairs. There is little in it to commend it either to Filipino or American.

If we are going to set the islanders free—and, incidentally, we promised to do so more than 30 years ago—we might as well make a clean job of it.

EXPLOITING CHILDREN

Perhaps the most appalling news of recent weeks came from Pennsylvania, where dispatches say several hundred boys and girls workers have walked out of shirt and pajama factories in an effort to end sweatshop conditions. A large percentage of these workers, it is stated, are under 16; some of them have been earning as little as 30 cents a week.

One girl of 15, the only member of a family of seven to have a job, has been working for 85 cents a week. Last winter, according to investigators for the Pennsylvania Department of Labor, child workers who complained that the shops were cold were told to "work faster and get warm."

Care for man is the greatest happiness of the German women. But they are more intellectual, even more disputatious than the woman of either England or America, and they will gain their ends.—Frau Katharina von Oheim-Kardorff, German feminist leader.

I feel that it will not be long before the sacrifices of today will nurture the seed of a real prosperity that will bloom in the sunlit dawn of a tomorrow not far away.—Postmaster-General James A. Farley.

We have not yet drawn the whole labor world into our ranks but we shall not cease our efforts until the last worker recognizes that our way is the right way.—Robert Ley, Nazi Reichstag member.

Women should fight shy of beer, which is a coarsening drink; it is a pass key to alcoholism.—Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, treasurer, Women's Christian Temperance Union.

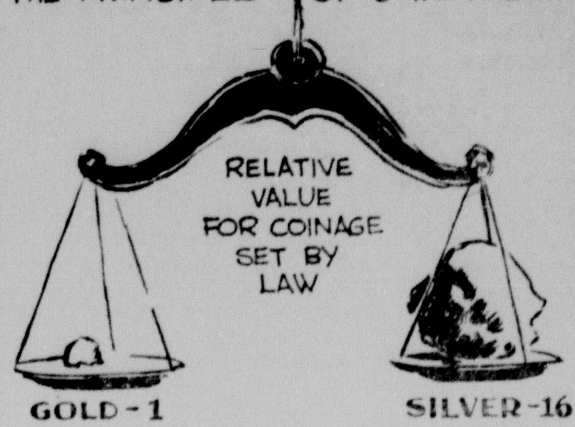

I am opposed to the executive branch taking over the legislative duties of Congress as this (inflation) bill provides.—Representative Beedy of Maine.

The most difficult obstacle to a reform movement in politics is the defeatist attitude.—William P. Taft II, son of the late former president.

Humor is a profession like law, medicine, engineering, and poetry.—Ed. Wynn, comedian.

MONEY—FROM THE STONE AGE TILL NOW

THE PRINCIPLE OF BI-METALLISM

This country, and most countries, were originally on a bi-metallic standard. That is, the government fixed a relationship between the price of gold and silver, and decreed that debts were payable in either, at that fixed ratio, issuing paper money against stores of either metal.

Perfectly theoretically, this has not always worked. A ratio once set, the relative values of the metals in free markets refuse to "stay put" at that point. Silver tended to become cheaper because produced as a by-product of copper and nickel, and not in response to demand. Either metal tends to flow to countries which value it more highly.

In the '80s, as though by definite plan, all the great nations of the world turned to the single standard of gold, abandoning silver to seek its own level as a commodity, like iron, since governments no longer agreed to pay a fixed price for it in relationship to gold.

International trade prospered, because all the great nations had a single standard for their money. That is not to say that bi-metallic would not work if all countries would agree on it uniformly. Silver, no longer coined or "pegged" at a definite price by the U. S. after 1873, declined in price, reaching a low of 82-1/2 to gold in 1931. (Next: World War Dislocates Gold.)

"Well, lad, you showed a lot of pluck in clinging to that great big duck," said Scouty, as the Tinies gathered 'round and held the bird.

"So far, so good. And now I hope that we can find a piece of rope. The woman doesn't know, yet, that this capture has occurred."

"She will know, though," said Scouty. "We must hurry to a nearby tree and get the old duck tied up. In my pocket I have twine."

"I'll tie it so there'll be no pain. There's naught to lose and much to gain. If this old duck starts quacking, my whole plan will work out fine."

"The old work witch will hear it. Then she'll dash right out of doors to see what is the matter. That's when we can pull our trick."

"We'll rush right in and try to find the two girls who are left behind. I guess you Tinies will admit that I am pretty slick."

"So far, you are," said Scouty. "But the woman still is in her hut."

"Come on, let's get the duck tied. Then we'll all begin to run."

"We'll hide behind the house and wait. It's foolish, now, to hesitate. As soon as the old duck quacks, I've a hunch we'll see some fun."

The bird was then tied to the tree and Scouty said, "Follow me! The whole bunch scampered to a spot where they were out of sight."

The duck soon ruffled up its back and then began to loudly quack. "Now watch for the old woman!" Scouty said. "Twirl be a sight!"

"Ah, there she comes!" another cried. The little hut door opened wide and out dashed the old work witch, looking mad as mad could be.

"Who played this trick? I'll catch the one who did it. Then I'll have my fun," she very loudly shouted. "Folks can't play mean tricks on me."

(The Tinies help the little girls escape in the next story.)

Everyday Religion

"When The Tide Comes In"

(By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton)

It is said that when the huge Hell Gate Bridge was a-building over the East River in New York, the engineers found the hull of an old ship embedded in the river just where one of the central piers was to go down. No tug-boat was able to move it. Much less lift it out of the mud. They were perplexed, until some one hit upon the idea of making the sea move it, which was done in this way.

They chained a flat-boat to the sunken hull when the tide was out, and waited. Slowly the tide came in, pushed by the sea and pulled by the moon, and the old ship was lifted inch by inch out of the bottom of the river.

Just so, there are racial rancors, religious bigotries, out-worn prejudices, and ancient stupidities deeply embedded in our American life, which delay our advance. Let anyone try to lead us toward a better social order, toward just, wiser, more humane laws, and he will run against these old obstacles.

Every plan of social engineering in our day is delayed by some old obstruction, and we seem unable to get them out of the way. Let anyone try to build a bridge from a world of war to a world of law and peace, and he is met by old dogmas, often petrified into proverbs, such as these: "Human nature cannot be changed," or "In time of peace prepare for war."

There they are, embedded in the human mind, immovable by argument or fact. We see what ought to be done, but we lack the power; we cannot work as we know and fashion as we feel and see. Let us take a lesson from the engineer of Hell Gate Bridge, and remember that there are tides of the spirit, vast laws of the moral and social life which will lift those sunken obstacles and clear the way for that bridge which shall join the streets of the City of Man to the streets of the City of God, wherein, at last, the souls of the whole world shall assemble.

ACTIVITIES OF DIXON'S PARK BOARD EXTOLLED

Park Board Review Devotes Article To Local Parks

The current issue of the Park Board Review, official publication of the Illinois Association of Park Districts, contains the following interesting item concerning the activities of the Dixon Park Board:

The city of Dixon furnishes an example of what can be done by reclaiming an undesirable tract and creating therefrom a picturesque recreation center.

A few years ago a very beautiful high school building, costing about $700,000, was built on the shores of the Rock river on land which had been low river bottom land, much of it serving as a dumping ground, being raised by pumping gravel from the river but leaving the surrounding territory anything but appropriate for such a building. Already, adjoining the building, was laid out a fine athletic field. The lands in question were overflowed each spring by river waters during the flood season. This tract of about six acres was pronounced by O. C. Simonds, a famous Chicago landscape architect (now deceased) as susceptible of development into a most unusual playground and, acting in co-operation with the Dixon Park Board, plans were drawn and the city proceeded by special assessment ordinance, resulting in a contract being awarded and work was started December 3, 1931.

The accompanying views show the present condition as compared with the territory at the time Architect Simonds conceived the plan. This tract embraces a river frontage about four blocks long and is an ideal spot for picnics and other recreational activities. Included in the improvement are three standard asphalt tennis courts which are proving very popular. There are also numerous asphalt walks and an outer and inner asphalt drive and lagoon, all created out of a wilderness of trees and underbrush.

The city of Dixon is one of the outstanding Illinois cities in regard to park lands furnished the public, having an acre of park territory for every thirty-three inhabitants and there being but one other Illinois city with a higher record.

This improvement was made at a remarkably low total cost of $18,000, or which but $12,745 being assessed against the city as a public benefit, the remaining $5,255 being assessed against private property owners and the board of education. It was necessary to condemn a small tract of the land, and this made it possible to divide the expense into twenty annual payments so the yearly outlay of city funds for this purpose is insignificant.

"The average merchant has learned his lesson, it is believed. Consistent advertising, he has found, is the only kind that will keep the channels of trade alive and cause the crowds to throng his store. Every day he is missing from the columns of the local newspaper means the loss of a definite amount of business. Mr. and Mrs. Public, and even the little Publics, read the newspapers now more than they ever did. They were all reading them during the depression, but now they find articles advertised which are much needed, and which would have been purchased before had they been brought to their attention."

"Newspaper advertising is slowly, but surely returning to normal. National advertisers—manufacturers of the nation's leading products—are increasing their advertising space and this causes the dealer who sells these products to increase the use of local space. Mr. and Mrs. Public will know that business is good when they see the advertising boom and they will want to satisfy that desire to be in the buying throng!"

"Watch your newspaper. Keep tab of the advertising and you will know just what is doing in the volume of business at your favorite store!"

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON — Marvel Mills Logan, the big fun-loving Senator from Kentucky, has a way of his own of escaping the cares and worries of the Senate.

A first-terminer, he found the Senate rather disappointing when he came up at the beginning of the last Congress in 1931. Back in Kentucky he had been the Chief Justice of the highest court in the state, and the quiet and dignity of the bench appealed to him.

After he had sat in the Senate for a short while, he began to grow a bit restless. Once he was caught shooting paper wads at Senator Connally of Texas in playful fashion while a weighty debate was going on on the floor.

"I didn't want to come here in the first place," he once told a session of the Senate. "And now that I am here, I am not particularly interested in staying."

NOW HE'S HAPPY—
During the past year, however, Senator Logan has found a job very much to his liking. Every Sunday morning he attends a Sunday school in Washington and teaches a class with a membership of more than 100.

Just recently he completed his first year as teacher of this class and admits that his chief enjoyment in Washington has come from it.

He has opportunity to express himself there, perhaps, as he does not have in the Senate. And what he tells the men in the class is indicative of the man and his attitude.

"The religious values of life are far more important," he advised them recently, "than anything that can be accomplished by legislation."

Perhaps his disappointment in the Senate might be found in this statement:

"The life of meditation rather than the life of acquisition is the chief end of government. It is what we are all seeking."

Others teach too—
The Senator is frequently a guest speaker in various pulpits.

Logan is not the only Senator who finds enjoyment in this way. Down in Vienna, Ga., there's a Sunday school class of young women who welcome the adjournment of each session of Congress. For it means their teacher—Senator George—will be back again.

One of the best known religious teachers on Capitol Hill, however, is an old, gray-haired Negro in the Senate barber shop by the name of Sims. Sims is the self-styled pastor of the Universal Church of Holiness in the capital. Many Senators, whose faces are shaved daily by Sims, visit his church on Sundays to hear him preach.

Now is the time to clear out the attic and if you wish to dispose of furniture or clothing try a for sale ad in the Telegraph.

PRESIDENT TOLD HIS PLANS LAST NIGHT VIA RADIO

He Gave Exposition Of His Policies From White House Desk

Washington, May 8—(AP)—A government "partnership" with industry to improve wages, shorten working hours and control surplus production will be President Roosevelt's next move in attacking economic adversity.

He revealed this last night in giving the nation a full exposition of his policies, past and future, for domestic and international recovery from the depression.

Similar to the measures already proposed for government cooperation with agriculture and transportation, the President would put the force of government behind trade agreements under a relaxation of the anti-trust laws.

Seated at a desk in the White House, Roosevelt also gave notice that he would use the powers about to be given him by Congress to provide inflation "when, as, and if it may be necessary to accomplish the purpose."

May "Correct A Wrong"
"The administration," he said, "has the definite objective of raising commodity prices to such an extent that those who have borrowed money will on the average, be able to repay that money in the same kind of dollar which they borrowed. We do not seek to let them get such a cheap dollar that they will be able to pay back a great deal less than they borrowed."

"In other words, we seek to correct a wrong and not to create another wrong in the opposite direction. That is why powers are being given to the administration to provide, if necessary, for an enlargement of credit, in order to correct the existing wrong."

There is every indication Roosevelt will employ promptly the provision in the inflation bill providing for government purchase of outstanding government bonds as a means of making millions, now invested by banks in these obligations, free for industry's use.

His declaration that "well considered and conservative measures" will be proposed for industrial supervision was regarded as meaning that something new in the way of legislation would be advanced in the place of the 30-hour work week bill now pending in the House.

An unofficial committee, headed by Senator Wagner (D. N. Y.), has virtually completed the drafting of a plan for self regulation by industry through a relaxation of the anti-trust laws and is expected to put it before the President this week.

Industry's Plans
Industry has been described by J. H. Rand, Jr., prominent manufacturer and a member of the Wagner committee, as considering a proposal to put 3,000,000 men back to work on a specified date as a part of the program.

Roosevelt, speaking of the authority about to be given him over agriculture to improve commodity prices and prevent over production, said "the extent of its use will depend entirely upon what the future has in store."

The President reviewed in detail the steps he has taken since March 4 and asserted that Congress has not surrendered its power but rather delegated him as its agent to carry out the emergency program.

He mentioned neither the banking reform legislation still in dispute in committee on Capitol Hill nor the controversial war debts issue. Fresh doubt arose as to whether he would seek action on either at this special session.

In the international field he outlined a four-fold objective—disarmament and security, reduction of "trade barriers," stabilization of currencies, and resumption of "friendly relations and greater confidence between all nations."

He reported that "our foreign visitors" who have been conferring here "have responded to these purposes in a very helpful way." He declared with emphasis that "the international conference that lies before us must succeed."

The text of President Roosevelt's talk follows:

"In a Sunday night a week after my inauguration I did the radio to tell you about the banking crisis and the measures we were taking to meet it. I think that in that way I made clear to the country various facts that might otherwise have been misunderstood and in general provided a means of understanding which did much to restore confidence.

"Tonight, seven weeks later, I come for the second time to give you my report—in the same spirit and by the same means—to tell you about what we have been doing and what we are planning to do.

"Two months ago we were facing serious problems. The country was dying by inches. It was dying because trade and commerce had declined to dangerously low levels; prices for basic commodities were such as to destroy the value of the assets of national institutions such as banks, savings banks, insurance companies, and others. These institutions because of their great

Indigestion, Jaundice

Jacksonville, Ill.—"I suffered from indigestion, never felt like eating and when I did eat, my food appeared to sour. Every little effort sapped my strength and I felt tired and depressed, constant headaches did their share, too, toward making me miserable. The doctors said I had 'yellow jaundice,' remarked Mrs. May C. Cook of 322 Pine Ave. I had always known of Dr. Pierce's medicine, as my mother, who was a physician, used his medicine in her practice. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and gained in weight, my appetite returned, the stomach complaint disappeared and my complexion cleared up fine. All druggists.

needs, were foreclosing mortgages, calling loans, refusing credit.

Values Melting Away
"Thus there was actually in process of destruction the property of millions of people who had borrowed money on that property in terms of dollars which had had an entirely different value from the level of March, 1933. That situation in that crisis did not call for any complicated consideration of economic panaceas or fancy plans. We were faced by a condition and not a theory.

"There were just two alternatives: The first was to allow the foreclosures to continue, credit to be withheld and money to go into bidding, and thus forcing liquidation and bankruptcy of banks, railroads, and insurance companies and a recapitalizing of all business and all property on a lower level. This alternative meant a continuation of what is loosely called 'deflation.' The net result of which would have been extraordinary hardship on all property owners and incidentally, extraordinary hardships on all persons working for wages through an increase in unemployment and a further reduction of the wage scale.

Reaches Decision Early
"It is easy to see that the result of this course would have not only economic effects of a very serious nature but social results that might bring incalculable harm. Even before I was inaugurated I came to the conclusion that such a policy was too much to ask the American people to bear. It involved not only a further loss of homes, farms, savings, and wages, but also a loss of spiritual values—the loss of that sense of security for the present and the future so necessary to the peace and contentment of the individual and his family.

"When you destroy these things you will find it difficult to establish confidence of any sort in the future. It was clear that mere appeals from Washington for confidence and the mere lending of more money to shaky institutions could not stop this downward course.

Has Praise for Congress
"A prompt program applied as quickly as possible seemed to me not only justified but imperative to our national security. The Congress, and when I say Congress I mean the members of both political parties, fully understood this and gave me generous and intelligent support. The members of Congress realized that the methods of non-emergency measures which were suited to the serious and pressing requirements of the moment.

"There was no actual surrender of power. Congress still retained its constitutional authority and no one has the slightest desire to change the balance of these powers. The function of Congress is to decide what has to be done and to select the appropriate measures to carry out its will. This policy it has strictly adhered to. The only thing that has been happening has been to designate the President as the agency to carry out certain of the purposes of the Congress. This was constitutional and in keeping with the past American tradition.

Outlines His Program
"The legislative program which has been passed or is in the process of enactment can properly be considered as part of a well grounded plan. "First, we are giving opportunity of employment to one-quarter of a million of the unemployed, especially the young men who have dependents to go into the forestry and flood prevention work. This is a big task because it means feeding, clothing and caring for nearly twice as many men as we have in the regular army itself. In creating this civilian conservation corps we are killing two birds with one stone. We are clearly enhancing the value of our natural resources, and second, we are relieving an appreciable amount of actual distress.

"This great group of men have entered upon their work on a purely voluntary basis. No military training is involved and we are conserving not only our natural resources but our human resources. One of the great values to this work is the fact that it is direct and requires the intervention of very little machinery.

Tells Muscle Shoals Plans
"Second, I have secured action upon a proposal to put the great properties owned by our government after long years of wasteful action, and with this a broad plan for the improvement of a vast area in the Tennessee valley. It will add to the comfort and happiness of hundreds of thousands of people and the incident benefits will reach the entire nation.

"Next, the Congress is about to pass legislation that will greatly ease the mortgage distress among the farmers and the home owners of the nation by providing for the easing of the burden of debt now bearing so heavily upon millions of our people.

"The next step in seeking immediate relief is a grant of half a billion dollars to help the states, counties and municipalities in their duty to care for those who need direct and immediate relief.

Says Beer Is Helpful
"The Congress also passed legislation authorizing the sale of beer in such states as desired. This has already resulted in considerable re-employment and incidentally has provided much needed tax revenue. "We are planning to ask the Congress for legislation to enable the government to undertake public works, thus stimulating directly and indirectly the employment of many others in well-considered projects.

"Further legislation has been taken up which goes much more fundamentally into our economic problems. The farm relief bill seeks by the use of several methods, alone or together, to bring about an increased return to farmers for their major farm products, seeking at the same time to prevent in the days to come disastrous over-production which so often in the past has kept farm commodity prices far below a reasonable return. This measure provides wide powers for emergencies. The extent of its use will depend entirely upon what the future has in store.

Seeks to Encourage Industry
"Well considered and conservative measures will likewise be proposed which will attempt to give the industrial workers of the country a more fair wage return, prevent cut-throat competition and unduly long hours for labor, and at the same time to encourage each industry to prevent overproduction. "Our railroad bill falls into the same class because it seeks to provide and make certain definite planning by the railroads themselves, with the assistance of the government, to eliminate the duplication and waste that are now resulting in railroad receiverships and continuing operating deficits. "I am certain that the people of this country understand and approve the broad purposes behind these new governmental policies relating to agriculture and industry and transportation. We found ourselves faced with more agricultural products than we could possibly consume ourselves and surpluses which other nations did not have the cash to buy from us except at prices ruinously low. We have found our factories able to turn out more goods than we could possibly consume, and at the same time we were faced with a falling export demand.

Sees Lack of Planning
"We found ourselves with more facilities to transport goods and crops than there were goods and crops to be transported. All this has been caused in large part by a complete lack of planning and a complete failure to understand the danger signals that have been flying ever since the close of the world war. The people of this country have been erroneously encouraged to believe that they could keep on increasing the output of farm and factory indefinitely and that some magician would find ways and means for that increased output to be consumed with reasonable profit to the producer.

"Today we have reason to believe that things are a little better than they were only two months ago. Industry has picked up, railroads are carrying more freight, farm prices are better; but I am not going to indulge in issuing proclamations of overenthusiastic assurance.

"We cannot ballyhoo ourselves back to prosperity. I am going to be honest at all times with the people of the country.

Warns Against Speculation
"I do not want the people of this country to take the foolish course of letting this improvement come back on another speculative wave. I do not want the people to believe that because of unjustified optimism we can resume the ruinous practice of increasing our crop output and our factory output in the hope that a kind Providence will find buyers at high prices. Such a course may bring us immediate and false prosperity, but it will lead us into another tailspin.

"It is wholly wrong to call the measures that we have taken government control of farming, control of industry, and control of transportation. It is, rather, a partnership between government and farming and industry and industry and transportation, not partnership in profits, for the profits would still go to the citizens, but rather a partnership in planning and partnership to see that the plans are carried out.

Cotton Industry Cited
"Let me illustrate with an example. Take the cotton goods industry. It is probably true that 90 per cent of the cotton manufacturers would agree to eliminate starvation wages, would agree to stop long hours of employment, would agree to stop child labor, would agree to prevent an over-production that would result in unsalable surpluses.

"But what good is such an agreement if the other 10 per cent of cotton manufacturers pay starvation wages, require long hours, employ children in their mills and turn out burdensome surpluses? "The unfair 10 per cent could produce goods so cheaply that the fair 90 per cent would be compelled to meet the unfair conditions. Here is where the government comes in. Government ought to have the right and will have the right, after surveying and planning for an industry to prevent, with the assistance of the overwhelming majority of that industry, unfair practice and to enforce this agreement by the authority of government.

Hits Unfair Competition
"The so-called anti-trust laws were intended to prevent the creation of monopolies and to forbid unreasonable profits to those monopolies. That purpose of the anti-trust laws must be continued, but these laws were never intended to encourage the kind of unfair competition that results in long hours, starvation wages and over-production.

"The same principle applies to farm products and to transportation and every other field of organized private industry.

"We are moving toward a definite goal, which is to prevent the return of conditions which came very close to destroying what we call modern civilization. The actual accomplishment of our purpose cannot be attained in a day. Our policies are wholly within purposes for which our American constitutional government was established 150 years ago.

May Make Mistakes
"I know that the people of this country will understand this and will also understand the spirit in which we are undertaking this policy. I do not need that we may make mistakes of procedure as we carry out the policy. "I have no expectation of making a hit every time I come to bat. What I seek is the highest possible batting average, not only for myself but for the team. Theodore Roosevelt once said to me: 'If I can be right 75 per cent of the time I shall come up to the fullest measure of my hopes.'

"Much has been said of late about Federal finances and inflation, the gold standard, etc. Let me make the facts very simple and my policy very clear. In the first place, government credit and government currency are really one and the same thing.

Only Promise to Pay
"Behind government bonds there is only a promise to pay. Behind government currency we have, in addition to the promise to pay, a reserve of gold and a small reserve of silver. In this connection it is worth while remembering that in the past the government has agreed to redeem nearly thirty billions of its debts and its currency in gold, and private corporations in this country have agreed to redeem another sixty or seventy billions of securities and mortgages in gold.

Eastman Heir Pleads Poverty

"The government and private corporations were making these agreements when they knew full well that all of the gold in the United States amounted to only between three and four billions and that all of the gold in all of the world amounted to only about eleven billions.

"If the holders of these promises to pay started to demand gold, the first comers would get gold for a few days and they would amount to about one twenty-fifth of the holders of the securities and the currency. The other twenty-four people out of twenty-five, who did not happen to be at the top of the line, would be told politely that there was no more gold left.

Would Treat All Same
"We have decided to treat all twenty-five in the same way in the interest of justice and the exercise of the constitutional powers of this government. We have placed every one on the same basis in order that the general good may be preserved. "Nevertheless, gold, and to a partial extent silver, are perfectly good bases for currency and that is why we decided not to let any of the tic situation which, of course, is our first concern, is the world situation, and I want to emphasize to you that the domestic situation is inevitably and deeply tied in with the conditions in all of the other nations of the world. In other words, we can get, in all probability, a fair measure of prosperity return in the United States, but it will not be permanent unless we get a return to prosperity all over the world.

Tells of Objectives
"In the conferences which we have held and are holding with the leaders of other nations, we are seeking four great objectives. First, a general reduction of armaments and through this the removal of the fear of invasion and armed attack, and at the same time, a reduction in armament costs, in order to help in the balancing of government budgets and the reduction of taxation. Secondly, a cutting down of the trade barriers, in order to re-start the flow of exchange of crops and goods between nations. Third, the setting up of a stabilization of currencies, in order that trade can make contracts ahead. Fourth, the re-establishment of friendly relations and greater confidence between all nations."

TEAMSTERS IN CONTROL OF OLD GUARD: BATTLE

Brief Strike Heralds Change Of Regime, Chicago Union

Chicago, May 8—(AP)—As a signal that management had changed hands, the Coal Teamsters, Chauffeurs & Helpers Union engaged in a brief strike today.

The Sheridan-Booth faction was back in control after a few days' holiday during which George Roy Baker held the well-armed fort that serves as union headquarters. Each faction has been accused of and denies gangster domination. The Sheridan-Booth group is alleged to be associated with Murray Humphreys and Jack White, heirs to the Capone regime.

A strike of 4,500 to 5,000 teamsters was called today but before noon most of the coal dealers had agreed to maintain the union wage scale in the Chicago coal yards. Only a few remained away from work.

At a mass meeting yesterday, about 1,800 union members rallied to the support of the old regime, repudiating the action of Baker in invading the organization's headquarters and seizing books and records.

To Baker's charges that they were affiliated with gangster elements, the officers of the "old guard" countered with the accusation that Baker and his followers intended to "sell out" to coal merchants by accepting a 10 per cent reduction in the drivers' scale and 5 cents a ton less for all kinds of "hiking."

Simultaneously, 120 members of the union attended a rally of the Baker group, and when it was over, the opposing factions clashed in hand-to-hand fighting.

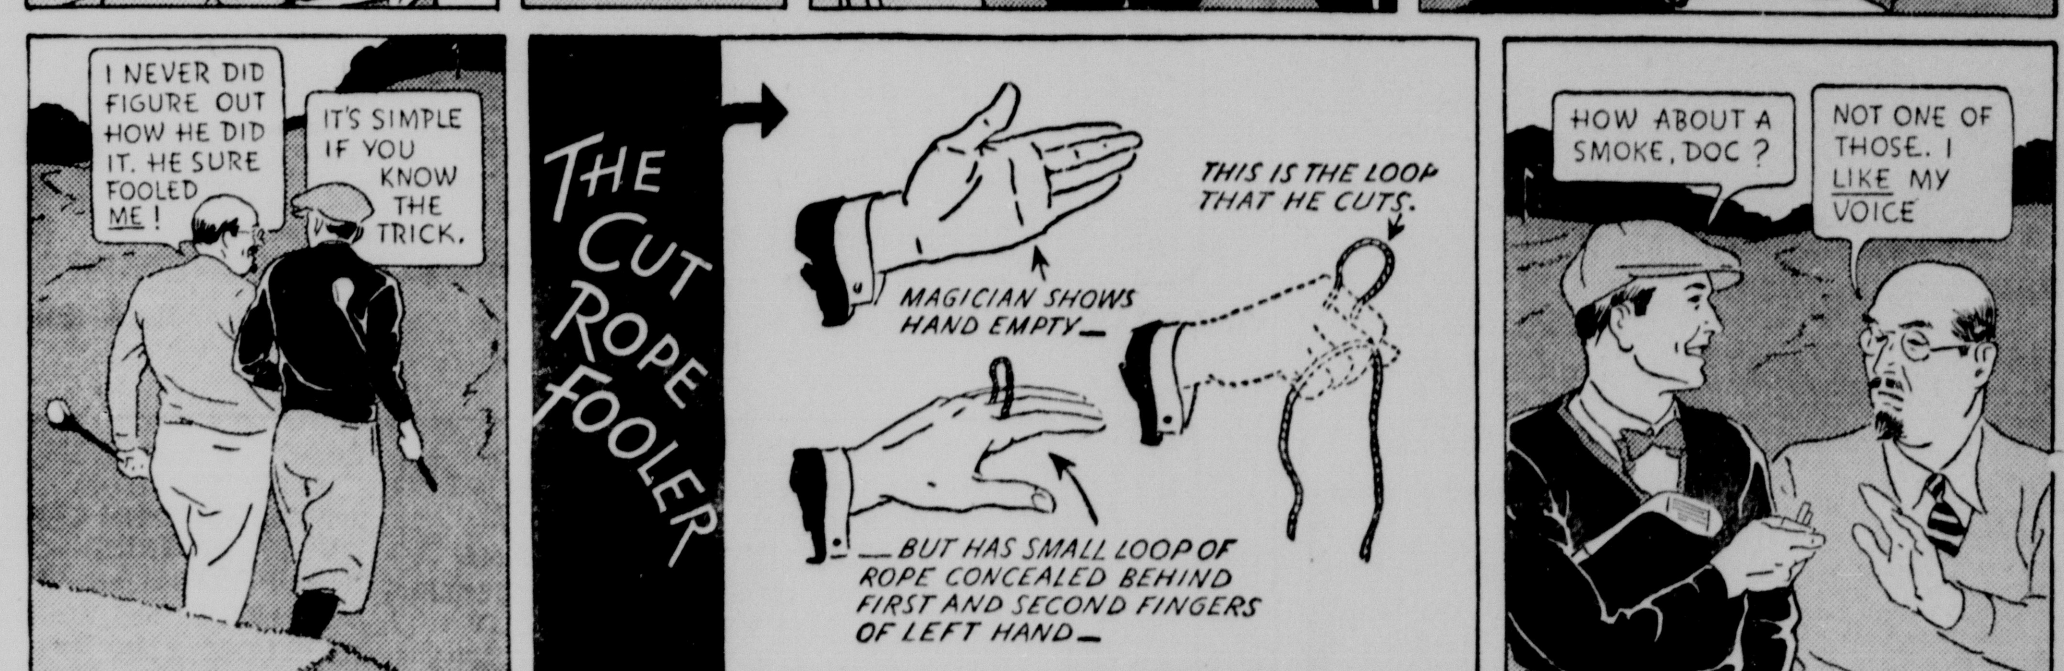

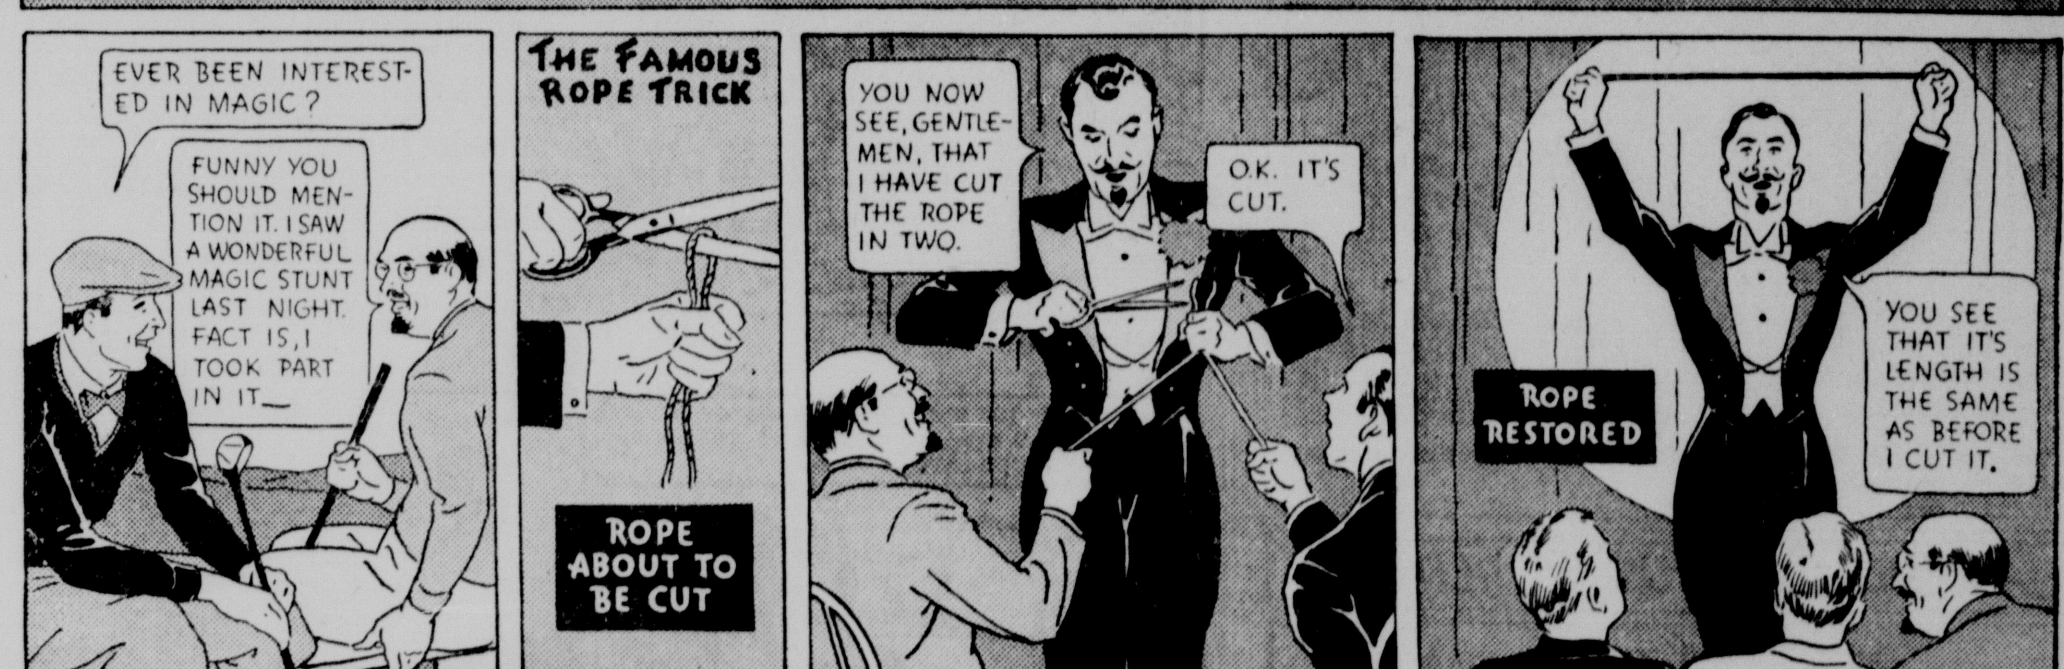

Baker led his men to the union offices where Jack Sheridan, chief clerk and Milton Booth, vice president, were addressing their adherents. Four men were hurt, not seriously, in a melee of fistfights.

GIRL IS FORCED TO KILL SLAYER OF HER FATHER

Community Near Elgin Is
Scene Of A Dramatic Tragedy

Elgin, Ill., May 8.—(AP)—The dramatic details of how a 17-year-old girl was forced to act as the executioner of her father's slayer, after her own life had been spared by the failure of a shot gun to respond to the trigger, were revealed today.

The girl, or whose act the State's Attorney said he would ask a Coroner's jury today to return a verdict of justifiable homicide is Lenora Schmitz. Her victim was Oliver Day, 48, slayer of her father, John Schmitz, 56, a farmer.

Authorities said they believed Day had become moody over his failure to win the girl's affections. The brief reign of terror took place in the Schmitz home in the early hours of Sunday when Day, crazed by liquor, dashed in to the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Schmitz, for whom he had worked for 15 years as a farm hand. He was armed with a shot gun and said he intended to kill them all.

Struggled With Killer
As Schmitz, clerk of Plato Center township and president of the school board, leaped from bed and struggled with the man, Day shot him fatally through the neck. A moment before Schmitz was shot in the leg as the gun was accidentally discharged when Mrs. Schmitz came to her husband's rescue and scuffled with Day.

Day then ran to Loretta's room as Mrs. Schmitz, alerted in night dress, escaped and fled to a nearby home of a married daughter to summon help.

The girl said she was forced to get on the bed while Day pointed the gun at her. As she waited with her face covered for the shot that would send her into eternity she said she heard the trigger click—but nothing happened.

At that the farm hand thrust the weapon into her hands and commanded her to kill him and then use it on herself.

"You kill me or I'll kill you," she said he commanded.

Failed To Discharge
She pulled the trigger and once again it didn't work. Then Day told her to release the safety catch on the gun and she did and fired.

The man fell mortally wounded and Loretta with her 11-year-old brother, John, ran to the sister's home.

A few hours before the double tragedy Loretta and a boy friend had encountered Day when they returned from an automobile ride and hurried to the school house to tell her father that Day had ordered her off the premises at the point of a gun.

Later the family returned home and when Day appeared and refused to retire Mrs. Schmitz handed him a blanket and told him to sleep on the porch. Then all retired.

An hour later Schmitz and Day were dead.

A small herd of dairy cattle was recently flown by plane from Lae, New Guinea, to Wau in the interior. The trip was made in 40 minutes as compared with six weeks necessary by train.

Completion of the Ranger, latest United States aircraft, brings the present American tonnage of this type vessel up to 91,300, still leaving a balance of 43,700 tons to be built.

LUMP PAYMENT OF DEBT TO U. S. UNPOPULAR

French Leaders Cool Toward Proposal To Settle In Full

Paris, May 8.—(AP)—Any lump sum war debt payment is apt to prove a bit more than France is willing to swallow at this time.

A threat to continued adherence to the gold standard is the great danger political and financial quarters see in any such arrangement for disposing of war obligations to the United States.

A plan, which is understood to have been advanced in a communication from the French representative at Washington, and now before the French government is reported to propose:

1. One third payment in gold.
2. One third payment in bonds immediately negotiable.

3. One third payment in bonds to be issued through the Bank for International Settlements at such a times as the bank desires.

A provision that part payment in silver would be acceptable also was understood to have been made.

As the cabinet met today to discuss the report of Edouard Herriot on his conversations at Washington, the reported lump sum payment plan was widely discussed. Part of the press held that gold payments would prove too much a drain on reserves.

The Excelsior, independent politically, said a definite settlement seemed difficult until something is established about the values of currencies and the possibilities of international transfers.

The French debt to the United States totals $4,025,000,000 principal and $2,800,000,000 interest. France has more than $3,216,000,000 in gold, the second largest supply in the world and this provides 77 per cent coverage of the franc.

It was stated by most commentators, however, that the proposal was to wipe the debt slate clean by only partial payment of the principal and cancellation of the interest.

DARLING FOOL

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MONNIE O'DARE who lives with her mother, brothers and sister in a small town in love with DAN CARDIGAN, heir to a local fortune. CHARLES EUSTACE, newcomer to the town, seems to admire her but she likes him only as a friend. KAY, her sister, is discontented at home and Monnie worries about this. SANDRA LAWRENCE who pretends to be a friend of Monnie's, tries to win Dan away from her. HETTY, a maid in the Lawrence home, thinks Sandra is "swamping" JAMES, the chauffeur. Kay tells Monnie that Sandra and Dan are practically engaged. Monnie determines to get him back and seems to be succeeding.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XVIII

SANDRA'S party was in high swing. The musicians were frankly wild, and handkerchiefs tucked into their sagging collars. The beautiful supper table was disorganized. Plates with melting mounds of ice, trays of little cakes, of half-filled glasses were everywhere and caterers' men rushed to and fro repairing the damage. Only the hostess, tall and slim in her ice-green frock of cobweb lace, seemed cool. Yet her aspect was scarcely that of a satisfied hostess—one who is sure her party had been a signal success. Ever and again she glanced over her shoulder at the French doors, standing open to the veranda. Once or twice she frowned thoughtfully and answered her partner unheedingly.

Hetty, watching the scene from behind the Venetian screen which guarded the dining room door, whispered maliciously to the cook, crowded in beside her. "Ain't she in a stew, though? Missed her guess that time. He didn't come."

"Who didn't?" Cook was obtuse.

Hetty snorted. "Young Mister Cardigan, of course. Didn't you notice?"

The elder woman shook her head. "I ain't bothered about such nonsense and you've no business to be. You better scoot back upstairs to the coats and wiggins and don't be trying none of them on, either."

Hetty, making a face at the other's retreating figure, found her arm pinned in a strong grasp and whirled to see the smiling face of James, the chauffeur, not two inches from her own.

"Let me go, you—you—The girl, big in her new gray gown, pretended to struggle but presently was lax in the man's arms. "What you hangin' around here for anyway?" she demanded with pretended truculence.

It was easy to see how she felt about James. Her beady black eyes were alight with conquest. Her breath was short and excited.

"I'm supposed to drive that tribe, the whole kit and caboodle of 'em, back to the last train. James told her, releasing his hold and lunging against the door jamb. Hetty's gaze took in his lithe leanness, effectively set off by the hunter's green garb he wore.

"Oh, yeah?" She savored this. "Hope they push off soon. I'm pretty tired myself. Got to give the old man early breakfast, too. You'd think a person was made of wood, the way you get treated."

"It's not a bad place to work," the chauffeur said lazily. "Good pay and the food is all right. What's your kick?"

"I could do twice as well in the city and you know it," she said sulkily.

"Then why don't you try it?"

"I can't. I'm tied up here."

"Then why don't you try it?"

"I can't. I'm tied up here."

"Then why don't you try it?"

"I can't. I'm tied up here."

"Then why don't you try it?"

"I can't. I'm tied up here."

"Then why don't you try it?"

"I can't. I'm tied up here."

"Then why don't you try it?"

"I can't. I'm tied up here."

"Then why don't you try it?"

"I can't. I'm tied up here."

"Then why don't you try it?"

"I can't. I'm tied up here."

"Then why don't you try it?"

"I can't. I'm tied up here."

His toothy grin held a trace of malice. Hetty gave him a furious look.

"Want to stick around and watch you, smarty!" she snapped. "You're getting too big for your boots. And there's somebody around here who'll make a fool of you if you don't watch out."

"You're telling me." He lighted a forbidden cigaret, coolly regarding her.

"I am, big boy. She's made fools of lots better than you are. I been watching her for a couple of years now. She's smart but she'll get her come-uppance one of these days when she least expects it."

"Keep your hair on," drawled the man. "I don't know what you're raving about anyway."

"You better watch yourself, that's all," Hetty advised, reluctantly taking her leave. "And so had she."

"Listen, sweetie!" In two strides the man was at her side, whispering persuasively. "Let's you and me have a party after all this is over. You can wait at the side drive for me when I come back. I'll pick you up and we'll drive over to the Springs. There's a dance place open all night over there. We can step some ourselves."

"I—I dashed!" The temptation tugged at her. "They'd find out and give me the air."

"Oh, what d'ya care? If they do we'll run over to Cleveland and get hitched. Try our luck as a couple in the city. What d'ya say?"

"Jimmy!" The plain face was transformed, the black eyes glowed, starlike. "Don't kid me like that! You haven't talked that way since—well, since her ladyship began to drag you around with her in the roadster last summer."

He patted her shoulder. "No kiddin'. I'm kinda sick of things here, myself. Like a change."

"I'll be waiting when you come back. Listen—glory be, if they ain't playing 'Home, Sweet Home!' She flew."

"SWEET of you to say so!" Sandra drawled for the hundredth time that night. "Yes, it's been a good party, hasn't it? Don't forget—the Blue Room on Friday! No, I'm driving up. Bye, Louis. Bye, Nancy." She flung an airy kiss into the night as the last car chugged off. Retreating to the empty and strangely dismantled house, she sighed a sigh of pure impatience.

Mrs. Peterman, stifling a man-sized yawn, was standing in the door of the butler's pantry.

"Everything's the most hideous mess," Sandra said testily. "But run along to bed. Never mind it tonight. Why I give parties, anyhow, I can't imagine!"

BROKER'S TIP'S VICTORY THRILL OF DERBY ANNALS

Winner And Horse He Defeated To Meet Again Saturday

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sport Editor)

New York, May 8.—(AP)—Thoroughbred heroes of one of the greatest three-year-old duels in American turf history, Broker's Tip and Head Play were pointed today for the renewal of a rivalry that has gripped the racing world with fresh melodrama and bitter arguments.

They waged the Dempsey-Pirpo battle of the turf, aided by their jockeys Saturday in the 69th Kentucky Derby, with Broker's Tip triumphant by two inches of nose in a stretch drive that has no superior for thrills since the mighty Man o' War barely beat John P. Grier in the historic finish to the 1920 Dwyer.

They are entered this Saturday in the Preakness at Pimlico along with a half dozen other survivors of the battle of Churchill Downs, and Head Play may be favored to turn the tables on the stout colt that upset Derby favorites, in his first winning race, and added to the record-breaking achievements of Colonel Edward Riley Bradley, king of Kentucky horsemen.

No matter what else happens, however, to these two game colts in the chase for 1933 three-year-old supremacy, their struggle is the most romantic of American horse-racing classics will remain a vivid chapter in turf annals.

For the last quarter-mile, with all rivals beaten off in the first mile, Head Play and jockey Herb Fisher struggled head to head with Broker's Tip and rider Don Meade in a terrific finish while 35,000 spectators yelled themselves hoarse. Fisher charged that Meade pulled Head Play's saddle cloth and otherwise interfered with him. Then Meade counter-charged that Fisher struck him twice with his whip. Fisher, tearfully raging, carried his protest to the judges, who turned him down. He carried his fight with Meade into the dressing quarters with him.

Bradley's Fourth
It was that kind of a rip-roaring finish where the hot-headedness of the participants reflected the sensational character of the race. The decision in favor of Broker's Tip, the first "maiden" to win the Derby since Sir Barton in 1919, marked the second straight triumph for Col. Bradley's horses and his fourth Derby victory altogether. No other owner ever has won the Kentucky prize more than twice.

Broker's Tip paid the big price of $19.86 for each $2 ticket. The dark son of Black Toney—Porter—ness was a 50-1 shot in the winter books, never having won a race in five starts as a two-year-old and three-year-old. Until this spring, a stablemate, Boiler-Maker had been pointed for the $50,000 classic by Bradley, but did not go to the post.

Sold Before Race
Head Play, by the margin of a nose, failed to complete one of the most dramatic stories of horse-racing. Bought for $500 as a yearling by William Crump, a former jockey, and raced under Mrs. Crump's colors, Head Play was sold 24 hours before the Derby for $30,000 to Mrs. Silas B. Mason of New York and Kentucky. Wife of a prominent contractor, Mrs. Mason had her whim gratified and her colors in the Derby for the first time, with an outstanding favorite, only to see the blue ribbon slip from her grasp by the narrowest of margins at the very end.

Winter books "cleaned up" on the Derby when W. R. Coe's Ladysman, two-year-old champion which went to the post a 7 to 5 favorite with a stable-mate, Pomponious, found the distance too tough. They finished fourth and fifth respectively. Charley O., another heavily favored entry, owned by Mrs. R. M. Eastman of Chicago, finished third in a starting field of 13 colts. Charley O. was five full lengths behind Head Play and two lengths in front of Ladysman.

Winning Margin
The margin of victory was a narrow one, Head Play winning by two inches of nose. The race was a close one, with many of the favorites being beaten off in the first mile. The race was a close one, with many of the favorites being beaten off in the first mile.

ABOUT ED LEADER—

There is no Poughkeepsie regatta this year—making this like a horse racing year without the Derby—but more crews are rowing than perhaps in any other year since the War. Yale's big Derby Day on the Housatonic, the Pacific regatta at Olympic Stadium and a score of intercollegiate jousts testify to the number of strong backs still bending.

Yale looms large in the shell this year, and that brings us back around to Coach Ed Leader. Ed and his twin brother were students at the University of Washington 20 years ago. Both were big, strong boys and they turned to football naturally. Elmer now is a Seattle lawyer.

FOOTBALL STAR—
Ed, who has done as much for eastern rowing as the Ten Eycks or the Glendons, came near not being connected with the sport at all. At Washington he rowed under Hiram Connibear, who developed the rowing system now generally used throughout the United States.

Through with school, Ed hung out his law shingle and waited for a suit to come along. But in 1917 Connibear was killed in a peer to be a good influence on Brooklyn in the second game and they made six hits off their old friend, Dazy Vance, and his successor, Bill Hallahan, good for a 4-2 victory.

The Chicago Cubs shot up from seventh place to third as they took two games from the Boston Braves, 11-2 and 5-2. They made 15 hits to aid Burleigh Grimes to the opening victory, then left it up to Babe Herman and Lonnie Warneke in the win second. The Babe batted in three runs with a homer and a double and Warneke contributed a homer.

The Phillies and Pittsburgh had an open date.

CHOCOLATE AND WATSON BATTLE FRIDAY EVENING

Their Fight On Friday Evening Is Feature of Week's Bill

New York, May 8.—(AP)—Kid Chocolate stakes his claim to the world's featherweight championship against a durable invader from England, Seaman Tom Watson, in a 15-round match in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The Cuban Negro, fast and skillful and a damaging puncher to boot, probably will rule a 7 to 5 favorite although Watson, on the basis of his excellent showing against Fidel LaBarba, will be no "push-over."

The British champion convinced skeptical critics that he was a real fighter here in January when he gave LaBarba a decisive beating in 15 rounds. He made 128 pounds for LaBarba and looked drawn and over-trained, but at the finish he was much the stronger of the two. He insists he can make the title limit of 126 pounds without jeopardizing his chances.

Chocolate, who won title recognition in this state by beating Lew Feldman in October, 1932, has made one successful defense of the championship. He beat LaBarba on a close decision in December of that year. In his latest bout he successfully defended his synthetic junior lightweight title against Johnny Farr in a 10 rounder at Philadelphia last Monday night.

The Chocolate-Watson duel easily tops the national schedule this week. The only other important bout involves Chocolate's principal rival for feather weight honors, Freddie Miller of Cincinnati. Miller, recognized as champion by the National Boxing Association, will battle Eddie Trujillo of Denver in a non-title match at Hollywood, Calif., Friday night.

practically invisible even under our most powerful microscopes, are left in the dark.

There are such things as filtrable viruses, and much of their nature, is established by indirect methods, that is, by animal experimentation, by the intensification of viruses, and by their transmission from animal to animal.

While the filtrable virus is regarded as beyond the range of the microscope, many scientists believe that a certain number of viruses may actually be demonstrated under very powerful microscopes. Among these are the viruses of small pox, fowl pox, rabies and of psittacosis or parrot fever.

A number of important diseases are believed to be due to filtrable viruses. These are measles, mumps, small pox, encephalitis, the common cold, yellow fever and infantile paralysis.

Man is not alone the victim of filtrable viruses. Animals suffer from distemper and foot-and-mouth disease. Plants are subject to what is known as mosaic and to certain other widespread diseases and malady.

The use of vaccine has proved effective in the control of a certain number of virus diseases. Outstanding among these are the smallpox vaccination and rabies vaccination.

Tomorrow—Colon Bacillus Infection.
